

Senate Appears Moving To Guaranteed Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, approving a liberalized day-care tax subsidy for working parents, appears to be moving gradually toward a federal guaranteed income for the poorest Americans.

The Senate plan is not nearly as extensive as the family-assistance plan offered and rejected during the Nixon administration. But some conservatives fear the Senate may be getting there fast.

The latest step came Wednesday when the Senate voted an annual government check for certain working parents with incomes so small they owe less than $800 in federal tax.

This provision, as part of a more generous tax credit for child care, follows enactment last year of a bonus payment for families earning less than $8,000 a year.

The proposal adopted Wednesday and the one that became law in 1975 have one thing in common: each amounts to a negative income tax — meaning that families whose incomes are below specified levels get a government check instead of having to pay a tax.

"I can't support having supposed taxpayers making a profit out of the tax laws," protested Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala. "Don't mix social programs and taxation.... I don't see the logic of that."

But Allen was in the minority as the Senate voted, 71 to 21, to amend the child-care tax subsidy to allow the government payments to the poorest families.

The Senate also approved a new tax credit for the elderly that would replace the complicated retirement-income provisions in current law.

This would allow persons over 65 to subtract directly from taxes owed 15 per cent of their first $2,500 of annual income from any source. The net effect would be a $146 tax saving for a single person and $220 for married couples.

The credits for child care and the elderly would cost the Treasury more than $700 million a year.

This loss would be offset partially by a $130-million-a-year increase in taxes on major oil companies and Americans who earn income abroad. This was approved on a voice vote by reducing from 50 to 40 per cent of income the amount of U.S. taxes that can be avoided by payment of tax to a foreign country.

The expanded child-care credit is aimed especially at helping millions of working mothers. It also would aid mothers who do not work because they cannot afford to hire someone to look after their children.

Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee finished basic work on a proposed package of fundamental changes in federal laws taxing a person's larger gifts during life and his estate at death.

Key parts of the committee bill would:

—Create a unified new rate structure in place of presently separate estate and gift tax rates.

—Provide a unified credit against estate and gift taxes in place of a current lower set of exemptions. This would merge existing exemptions that total $90,000 into a credit ultimately equal to a $153,750 tax exemption.

B1 Bomber Postponed To Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just as Pentagon chief Donald Rumsfeld was exhorting Congress not to "inhibit" defense spending, opponents of the B1 bomber won another victory in their fight to delay production of the aircraft.

By a one-vote margin, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted Wednesday to hold up funds for the bomber until Feb. 1 to give whoever is elected president in November a chance to decide whether to go ahead with the plane.

President Ford and his GOP rival, Ronald Reagan, favor production of the B1, but Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter has expressed reservations about the need for the supersonic bomber.

Rumsfeld called the decision "unsound." Rockwell International's B1 Division said 3,000 workers would be laid off if the delay takes effect. But Sen. John Culver said the move was "a clear-cut victory for the American taxpayer and common sense in defense spending."

B1 supporters are expected to try to reverse the committee vote when the defense appropriations bill reaches the Senate floor.

Watergate Legislation Toughened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate legislation that is advancing through Congress would force members of Congress and other federal officials to disclose their sources of income for the first time, and reform-minded House Democrats are pressing for quick approval.

The Watergate Reform Act, the first bill to respond to the scandals that brought down the administration of President Richard Nixon two years ago, was approved Wednesday in the Senate 91 to 5.

The measure, sent to the House, would require financial disclosure and create a permanent office of special prosecutor to investigate misdeeds at the top levels of government's executive, judicial and legislative branches.

The financial disclosure requirements would apply to federal judges, high administrators, the president and the vice president, as well as members of Congress.

Although some politicians make their sources of income and tax returns public, no federal law now requires them to do so.

Shortly before the Senate vote, rank and file House Democrats demanded that they be allowed to vote on financial disclosure during this election year.

The House Democratic Caucus approved a resolution making it party policy that such a vote be taken.

The Senate bill also would prohibit presidents from naming top officials of their campaign to serve as attorney general or deputy attorney general.

John Mitchell became attorney general after managing Nixon's 1968 campaign. He resigned to head Nixon's re-election effort in the spring of 1972, but quit shortly after the June 1972 break-in at Democratic National Headquarters in the Watergate office building here. Mitchell was later convicted with other top Nixon aides in the cover-up trial.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., who offered the amendment to bar political operatives from the top Justice Department posts, said "it has become nearly standard practice for presidents to push this important and sensitive office into the partisan political arena by naming their campaign managers attorney general."

President Ford supported the bill creating a permanent special prosecutor. His reaction to Bentsen's amendment was not known.

The special prosecutor would be appointed by the president to a single three-year term and would be authorized to investigate allegations of wrongdoing by the president, vice president, attorney general, other Cabinet members, the director of the FBI, federal judges and members of Congress.

In addition, allegations involving White House and congressional staff members could be referred to him.

Pink Martian Skies 'Seen' By Viking

PASADENA (AP) — The first Martian weather report shows nippy morning temperatures of 122 degrees below zero on the Red Planet, under skies not blue but pink.

Dust particles floating in the thin atmosphere scatter sunlight to paint the sky pink, scientists explained today, even though it looked an earthy blue in Viking 1's first color picture.

"It is red, but not as red as the surface," said Dr. Carl Sagan.

The color was false in the first picture because Viking's cameras have not yet been adjusted to reproduce colors on Mars with perfect accuracy, said project officials.

A more serious problem was also revealed late Wednesday. The seismometer designed to detect marsquakes did not turn on properly after Tuesday's landing.

Unless it can be fixed by radio commands from earth, the instrument will not be able to carry out its work of recording quakes and probing the interior of the planet, said Deputy Mission Director Lou Kingsland.

Scientists had hoped to have the use of seismometers aboard both Viking 1 and its twin, Viking 2 — due for a landing later this summer — in order to determine the location of any marsquakes. If only one seismometer works properly, only the number, not the direction of the quakes can be registered.

Dr. Seymour Hess, meteorology investigation team leader, said the weather station aboard the robot lander recorded temperatures ranging from 122 below zero Fahrenheit to 22 below, although the latter was not the highest temperature of the day.

He said there were light winds shifting from the east to the southwest during Viking's first Martian night. The highest wind speed was 15 miles per hour, far gentler than the winds of several hundred miles per hour known to blow on the planet.

Sagan, a member of Viking's lander photography team, said another scientist, Dr. James Pollack, had determined the pinkish hue of the Martian sky. It had appeared much brighter than expected in Viking's first black-and-white photos, and had appeared blue in the color picture until further analysis revealed the sky's true color.

The robot lander's camera snapped a pair of photos Tuesday of the spot where, a week from now, a telescoping arm has been preprogrammed to scoop up a sample of Martian soil. That will mark the beginning of biological tests in the hunt for Martian life.

Meanwhile, with one Viking experiment station on Mars working well, officials have decided to be bolder with the second Viking and aim it for a northerly site riskier but more likely to harbor Martian life.

Judge Orders HEW To Move Against Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying federal officials have "failed in their duties" to monitor desegregation, a U.S. District Court judge is ordering the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to take action against 46 school districts in every section of the country except the South.

Judge John Sirica, in an order issued Wednesday, told HEW officials to move against the school districts in the next 60 to 120 days, saying there had been enough delays.

The order could lead to withholding of federal funds from school districts that are not in compliance with federal desegregation laws.

Included in Sirica's order were school districts in New York City; Los Angeles; Chicago; Tucson, Ariz.; Omaha, Neb.; and Hartford, Conn.

Plaintiffs in the case had argued that HEW officials failed to enforce the desegregation regulations throughout the country with as much enthusiasm as in the South.

None of the school districts listed by Sirica was in the South. A similar court order involving schools only in the South was directed at HEW officials several years ago, and a government study released last month said fewer students attend "intensely segregated" schools in the South than in any other section of the country.

In response to Sirica's order, Martin H. Gerry, director of HEW's Office of Civil Rights, said the government has already taken proper actions against the 46 school districts. He contended the districts are voluntarily desegregating "in virtually all instances."

Sirica cited "substantial delays of from 1½ to 8 years" in completion of HEW investigations of compliance by the 46 school districts, "during which time the school districts involved have continued to receive federal financial assistance."

But Gerry said Sirica was ruling on the basis of old information.

Two of Ohio's school districts, Springfield and Lima, are among 46 around the country named Wednesday in a federal court order as having failed to desegregate their schools.

But Sirica said that HEW officials had "failed in their duties."

"The substantial delays of from 1½ to eight years without bringing these investigations to conclusions, during which time the school districts involved have continued to receive federal financial assistance, violate the agency's own regulations and the express intent of Congress in Title 6," the judge ruled.

The plaintiffs in the case had accused HEW of failing to enforce the desegregation requirements of the law in northern and western states the way the government has done in the South.

Sirica broke the districts into three categories in issuing his order and setting timetables for each.

Fourteen districts were in the category of "substantial delays" the judge cited in his ruling. He ordered HEW to conclude their probes within 60 days, issue findings and begin enforcement proceedings within 120 days if violations were found.

An additional 26 districts had already been found to violate Title 6, Sirica said, and he ordered compliance hearings for them within 60 days.

In the final six cases, districts had been found in violation of Title 6 but HEW had not moved against them, the judge said, ordering the department to do so.

The two Ohio districts came under the second category.

Wealthy Trio Sought For Kidnap Questioning

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — A heavily armed force of deputies swooped down on a lavish 100-acre estate near here early today, searching for evidence in the Chowchilla school bus hijacking.

The estate, six miles south of here, is owned by Frederick N. Woods III, who also owns the rock quarry in Livermore where 26 schoolchildren and their bus driver were buried in a makeshift, underground prison for 18 hours before digging their way out.

Alameda County Sheriff Tom Houchins said officials also wanted to talk to Woods' son, 24-year-old Frederick N. Woods IV.

The elder Woods had told one interviewer on Wednesday that he didn't know the whereabouts of his son.

"I was told by the sheriff's office not to say whether I have one son or 10 sons," Woods said.

Houchins said he also was interested in talking to two of young Woods' friends — Richard Schoenfeld, 22, and James Schoenfeld, 24, sons of J.B. Schoenfeld, a podiatrist in nearby Atherton.

A highly placed source in the Alameda County sheriff's office told The Associated Press Wednesday that one young man being sought in connection with the kidnapping was connected to the rock quarry. The source said the other two were sons of a prominent San Francisco area physician.

Houchins emphasized at a news conference late Wednesday night that the younger Woods and the Schoenfeld brothers had not been named in any arrest warrant.

Officials also emphasized early today that no arrest warrants had been issued in the case.

"The three are subjects of the investigation" into the kidnapping,

Houchins said. "I would be interested in talking to them. I would not arrest them."

Alameda County sheriff's officials had said earlier Wednesday that Woods "and his boy are being investigated routinely."

Houchins said more than 100 vehicles were found on the estate, including one which he said authorities were interested in, a tractor usually used to pull trailer trucks. The children and the driver were imprisoned in a moving van trailer.

Under the command of sheriffs from Alameda, San Mateo and Madera counties, the caravan of sheriff's deputies left the San Mateo sheriff's office Wednesday night and was accompanied to the Woods estate by Charles Bates, FBI agent in charge of the San Francisco office.

The elder Woods was served with a search warrant signed by a San Mateo County judge.

His house was searched and he and his wife were the only people at home, Houchins said.

Some 60 law enforcement officers then scattered about the property on a fine-comb search of 15 buildings on the estate in Portola Valley on the San Francisco Peninsula.

Standing by as backup team was a Special Weapons and Tactics team from San Mateo County.

Published reports said Wednesday that the kidnapping last Thursday, which authorities said was carried out by three armed, masked men, may have been the work of a "drug and gun cult" involving members of wealthy families.

A source told The AP that the families of all three men sought in the case have residences on the San Francisco Peninsula, of which San Mateo County is a part.

Meanwhile, the Sacramento Bee reported Wednesday, "The arrests of at least seven sons of wealthy San Francisco Peninsula families are imminent."

The investigation shifted here after clothing and other articles taken from the bus driver by the kidnapers were found alongside a Saratoga area road, about 20 miles south of Redwood City.

The Fresno and Modesto Bees quoted a source as saying:

"We are looking very closely to an individual named Fred because the moving van was sold ... to him personally." The source contended that only someone with easy access to the quarry could have buried the van, six feet underground. The van was purchased last Nov. 20.

Labor Disputes Hit Several Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Labor disputes in the coal, rubber, fruit and grain industries have left tens of thousands of workers idle nationwide.

Federal mediators were trying today to quickly settle a California cannery strike that could result in a $1-billion fruit harvest loss and higher supermarket prices. And Labor Secretary William J. Usery was again trying to end the nation's three-month rubber workers' strike.

Meanwhile, Oregon state officials were coping with a strike by grain inspectors which a state court judge refused to try to stop. And in West Virginia, one out of five miners was off the job protesting a federal judge's effort to stop one local's strike.

The most dramatic situation was in California, where the Teamsters union struck, close to the peak of harvest time when fruit could rot before a settlement is reached.

James Searce, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, called representatives of both sides to Washington for negotiations today. The California Farm Bureau had already warned that a six-week strike could mean a crop loss of $1 billion.

After three months of negotiations that did not produce a new contract, some 30,000 workers in 13 Teamster union locals went on strike at 76 California processing plants Tuesday — within two weeks of the peak of the harvest season, which starts Aug. 1.

At stake are 80 to 85 per cent of the nation's canned tomatoes, apricots, peaches and fruit cocktails. To handle the load, the industry normally adds another 30,000 seasonal workers.

The union is seeking, over three years, a $3-an-hour raise over the workers' current average pay of $4.93 an hour plus 73 cents in fringes. The company says the union's proposal would mean a four-cent rise in the price of a regular-size can of peaches or tomatoes. It has offered a pay raise of 95 cents to $1.43 an hour, depending on the cost-of-living.

Usery, meanwhile, made two efforts Wednesday night and was to try again today to reach United Rubber Workers president Peter Bommarito in Akron, Ohio. Some 60,000 members of the URW have been on strike against the nation's four leading tire makers for 93 days.

A native of New Holland, Draize graduated from the former Jeffersonville High School. He is a member of the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union in Washington C.H. He and his wife, Betty, have a son, Roger, and two daughters, Nancy and Mary.

thinks a giant monument symbolizing "Justice" should be built on the outcropping a mile off Fisherman's Wharf. Sort of a West Coast counterpart to New York's Statue of Liberty.

A band of American Indians who occupied the island for 19 months — before they were ousted by federal officers — wanted to turn it into an Indian cultural center, a goal still mentioned from time to time.

Also among the suggestions — a privately developed hotel, convention and shopping complex. One developer wants to build a gambling casino.

But the most popular notion, according to the National Park Service, is to continue the public tours which started three years ago and are tentatively scheduled to continue for at least two more years.

About 1,500 tourists walk daily through the grim corridors and crumbling cellblocks where the likes of Al Capone and George "Machine Gun" Kelly paid their debts to society.

Since the public tours began in October 1973, about 1.2 million people — including 20 onetime Alcatraz prisoners — have taken the 2 1/2-hour excursion to the infamous former federal penitentiary that is now part of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

Some visitors fill out questionnaires asking what should happen to Alcatraz. Seventyseven per cent say the tours should continue, according to Lee Shenk of the Park Service, which runs the tours. A staff committee is preparing recommendations, he said, and the report will be ready later this year.

In three years, the tours have brought in $1.69 million. Five per cent of that goes to the federal Treasury, and the balance to the company which runs the tour boats, Shenk said. Tour guide salaries and Alcatraz operating expenses come from the Park Service budget.

"It's the best $2 ticket in town," one tourist exclaimed as he left one of the boats that ferry 140 tourists to the island on each trip.

Twenty-two men and women, dressed in Park Service uniforms, give commentaries on the island's 200-year history as they lead visitors along Alcatraz' winding hillside road and steep paths, through the threestoried cellblock and into the high-walled exercise yard.

They walk through ancient fortifications and see the "Indian Land" graffiti and shells of buildings destroyed by fire during the occupation by representatives of 30 Indian tribes.

Visitors are invited to close themselves inside one of the pitch-black solitary confinement cells, completely lined in solid steel and furnished only with a toilet hole in the floor.

In the same cellblock are two decks of steel-barred isolation cells with a million-dollar view of the Golden Gate. They include the one where Capone was moved at his own request after fellow convicts tried three times to kill him.

Tour guides point out that Robert Stroud wasn't the harmless bird-lover portrayed by Burt Lancaster in the "Birdman of Alcatraz."

"Stroud stabbed a guard to death at Leavenworth," explained guide Kathleen Gallagher. "When he came here, he spent all of his time in solitary confinement — it was part of his sentence for the murder. Actually, he should have been called the Birdman of Leavenworth..."

Much of what the Park Service has learned about Alcatraz comes from former guards and the ex-convicts who return as free men for the tour.

One such visitor was Clarence V. Carnes, once known as the Choctaw Kid, the sole survivor of the six convicts who triggered a bloody riot on "The Rock" on May 2, 1946. Three instigators and two guards died, and the other two convicts were hanged for murder.

Carnes, who arrived at Alcatraz the previous year at the age of 18, was spared because of his age and later was paroled to live with a sister in Kansas City.

"I spent 18 years on Alcatraz and about three of those was in The Hole," Carnes told an interviewer a couple of years ago. "It's pleasant coming back here as a free man."

Alcatraz' history goes back to 1769, when it was first sighted by a Spanish ship and got its name, "Isla de los Alcatrazes" — Island of the Pelicans. The island became a military fort in 1853, housing Civil War prisoners and later Indian prisoners.

In 1909, Alcatraz became a military prison, switching in 1934 to the status of a maximum security lockup for tough federal convicts.

The once-bustling dining hall is bare now, except for a board listing the menu for Easter Sunday, 1962: Fried chicken, sage dressing, snowflake potatoes, giblet gravy, buttered asparagus, rolls, butter, cranberry sauce, pudding, fruit, coffee.

In the main cellblock is the main corridor the convicts called Broadway, the western corridor called Park Avenue with its view of the Golden Gate, and the eastern corridor, dubbed Michigan Avenue.

Tourists stare up at the soaring ceiling above Times Square, the mustering area between the three-tiered cells and mess hall.

They peer through the four port-holes, once covered with three-inch-thick bullet-proof glass, where convicts were allowed to see but not touch occasional visitors.

Guides tell them about the hum-drum, never-changing routine of prison life: Lights on at 6:30 a.m., 20 minutes for meals, work in the prison laundry or furniture shop, lights out at 9:30 p.m.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy closed down the Alcatraz prison in 1963, calling it inhumane. His decision came on the heels of a highly publicized escape by three convicts, who used spoons to gouge out the decaying concrete in their cells.

Decay was triggered by the use of salt water to mix the concrete when the old cellblock was built early in the century. Even today, fresh water has to be carried by boat to the rocky island.

Assembly Demos Rap Rhodes Call

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats, sharply critical of a Rhodes Administration plan to aid the Medicaid program, say they will not call the bill up for a vote at a special session next week.

The decision by the Democratic leadership means the legislature will meet Tuesday, refer Gov. James A. Rhodes bill to committee and then recess, probably on Wednesday.

Both Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek and House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., met with Rhodes Wednesday and later said they were against a bill to trim $58 million across-the-board from state government agencies.

"I don't admit there is a problem in July with Medicaid," the Senate leader added. "I think it's a tempest in a teapot."

"I indicated to the governor I wish he knew the depth of the problem before he runs off in 10 different directions," said Ocasek, D-27 Akron, after meeting with Rhodes.

Riffe, D-89 New Boston, said based on "the information I have now, I see no reason for the cuts... If the bill is written as I've been told, then I am opposed to it."

The dispute is not over the long range funding problem of the troubled health care program, but rather over the timing and approach of the Rhodes proposal.

Ocasek and Riffe also said they wanted to see the report of their own Joint Committee on Medicaid before enacting an administration bill that would in effect rewrite the 1977 fiscal budget. The legislative committee recommendations, based on two months of study and hearings, could come as early as next week.

"I will not do anything until I get a report from the special committee," Ocasek said.

The legislature can consider only Medicaid at the session since Rhodes ordered them back for that express purpose, but after they reconvene Tuesday the majority can recess and return again at will. Democrats could also introduce their own plan, if they have one, at the special session.

The governor's budget director, William W. Wilkins, unveiled the administration's solution in detail at a news conference.

By adding 2 per cent to the 2 per cent spending restraint already imposed by Rhodes, Wilkins said the state could save $51 million. Another $7 million could be skimmed from selective cuts at agencies—the largest being $5 million from the State Controlling Board's allpurpose fund.

That would assure that the state could match federal money by a Nov. 15 deadline and generate $127 million to carry the Medicaid program at least to next March, he said.

Colorado Rapidly Becoming 'Civilized'

ROCKY FORD, Colo. (AP) — Colorado turned 100 this year, entering century No. 2 nostalgic for the days of tumbleweed streets and cowboys riding into the sun and wary about all the people coming to the New West.

And Colorado, still sparsely populated, is getting to be a popular place.

Park officials estimate that as many as three million tourists will roll into the state this summer to visit the Rockies, which are often snowcapped when the mercury registers 96 a few miles away on the flatlands.

The novice may explore any of 53 peaks rising above 14,000 feet; pan for gold near Golden; observe a tobacco spitting contest at Cripple Creek; watch a mock Western shoot-out at Estes Park or park his camper at Lake Granby and ask his neighbor to turn down his portable TV.

Vigilantes don't string up suspects anymore. Colorado citizens are more concerned about stockpiles of deadly nerve gas that they recently persuaded the government to remove from the vicinity of Denver's international airport, and about radiation from the Rocky Flat Nuclear weapons plant.

Where men once dug for gold and silver with pick and shovel, engineers using massive machinery are now hollowing out Cheyenne Mountain to expand the North American Air Defense Command's tracking facility.

In the late 1800's Denver boasted "the West's most wicked thorefare," along Holladay Street, with its "boarding houses for young ladies." A leading madam of the day, Mattie Silk, once fought a duel with another woman over a man. Neither woman was hit, but the man, who later married Mattie, was.

Today a woman who calls herself Ming Toy Epstein is among the dozens of women performing at Denver's nude bars, permitted since the state Supreme Court ruled the old anti-obscenity ordinance unconstitutional.

In 1875 the little river town of Denver had a population of 22,000; 55 saloons; 63 hotels; 34 cigarette and tobacco stores; 6 schools and 18 churches and one synagogue. Five years earlier the first railroad reached town, doubling the population.

Today more than 56 per cent of the state's 2.5 million residents live in the Denver metro area.

"The seemingly endless frontier of the West is gone," Gov. Richard Lamm said, adding it is time lawmakers realize that "states have carrying capacities, just like airplanes do."

Colorado's population has increased 45 per cent in the last 15 years, although residents have achieved zero population growth. Today an average of 134 new residents unpack each day. The number of mobile homes has doubled in five years to 68,000.

"We must stop thinking of bigger, faster and more and start thinking of smaller, slower and less," if the state and nation are to celebrate the next 100 years, he says. Lamm, 40, won election in 1974 after "opposing both motherhood and the flag," by supporting abortion and opposing Colorado as the site of the 1976 Olympics.

Denver, "The Queen City of the Plains," is a mile above sea level and has the second highest carbon monoxide level in the nation after Los Angeles.

There were 2,442,145 registered motor vehicles in the state last December for 2.5 million people.

One of every 10 residents works for the Department of Defense, which provides an annual payroll of $1.35 billion. Just over $7 million worth of gold and silver was mined in 1875.

The federal government controls 23,939,394 acres of the state's range, forest and parklands — 36 per cent of the state and equal to Maine, Delaware and Rhode Island combined.

"The growing dependence on government aid and assistance is killing the community do-it-yourself spirit on which the West was founded," says Claire Stafford, news director of station KLMAR in the eastern plains community of Lamar.

Colorado's "Sunset Bill," requiring government regulatory agencies to periodically prove their value or close shop, was passed this year and is the model for one now before Congress. Petitions to ban throwaway bottles, restrict nuclear power plant construction and increase taxes on mined minerals are being circulated this summer in hopes of November referendums.

But the spirit of the Old West lingers. Lean men with wrinkled faces, dusty jackets and broad brimmed cowboy hats still make a living in the saddle, or at least behind the wheel of a four-wheel drive pickup truck with a CB radio and rifle rack at the back of the cab.

State conservation officers note that farmers and ranchers are still permitted to kill marauding black bear without a license. Several hundred more are taken annually by licensed hunters. Only residents are permitted to hunt mountain goat and big horn sheep, but others come for deer, elk, antelope and mountain lion.

And cattle and chickens outnumber the human population, 2 to 1.

Boat Crash Fatal To 3

WARSAW, Ky. (AP) — Three persons died and another was injured late Wednesday when a pontoon they were riding collided with a petroleum barge near this Ohio River town, Gallatin County Sheriff Delmar Alexander said.

The accident occurred about one mile upstream from the Markland Locks and Dam, Alexander added.

The victims were identified as Douglas Lowe and his wife Margaret, both of Trafalgar, Ind., and Lowe's sister-in-law, Mrs. Paul Lowe of Indianapolis. The two women were killed in the crash and Douglas Lowe died at a hospital of a heart attack, police said.

Paul Lowe was reported in serious condition at a Covington, Ky., hospital.

Police said the Indianapolis couple were in their fifties. The ages of Douglas and Margaret Lowe were not known.

Police said the name of the company that owns the tanker barge, the Texas, was not known.

Arkansas leads the nation in chicken and rice production.

Athens Group Aids Youngsters

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — They have neither a father nor a strong male figure within their family, but Harold and Troy now have the strong male guidance their mother knows they need.

The two youngsters are members of Athens Side Kicks, a local organization dedicated to linking adults and children in meaningful relationships.

The group, founded by Darrel Cook, an elementary school principal, and Gary Fagan, educational specialist for the Ohio Youth Commission, is an independent, volunteer organization providing guidance to Athens County children lacking it in their home life.

Children usually are referred through Athens County Children's Services and elementary school principals. Sometimes parents see signs and posters for the programs and enter their children, says Chris Pauken of Athens County Juvenile Court.

Harold and Troy's mother says she came in contact with the program through a paper Harold brought home from school.

"I'd heard about it all summer and I'd seen some signs around town," she says. "After school started, they brought home two applications to fill out and I gave them to Mr. Cook. I went to see him and he said it would be a good idea."

Harold, 8, was introduced to his Side Kick in January and Troy, 6, to his in February. Harold sees his partner for about four hours on Saturdays while Troy is visited less.

"We go to the movies, play pool, go bowling," said Harold. "I wish they'd make a kids' bowling ball."

Unlike Big Brothers of America, which restricts itself to fatherless boys, Athens Side Kicks is geared to helping both boys and girls needing adult guidance. Fagan and Cook say they started Side Kicks instead of a Big Brothers chapter because of the red tape, expense and the restriction to boys of Big Brothers.

Side Kicks currently works with 22 children (8 are girls) and 21 adults, Pauken says. Of 21 adults who have volunteered, 18 are Ohio University students. Side Kicks will soon be approaching Hocking Technical Institute in Nelsonville for more volunteers.

University students originally were asked to contribute in ways other than being adult Side Kicks, Cook says, because of the seasonal nature of their stay in Athens. As the program progressed, they were allowed to be adult Side Kicks.

Side Kicks are meant to be friends, not authoritative figures, says Steve Fox, a student Side Kick.

"If they see an adult towering above them, they get scared. I would never touch them or never really yell at them. I may change my voice but there is absolutely no physical contact."

"If they get out of line, I put them in line," he adds. "I think they kind of like that."

Technicians Exposed To Radiation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A spokesman for Battelle Memorial Institute said three technicians were exposed to a small amount of nuclear material in Battelle's plutonium laboratory near West Jefferson on July 13.

The spokesman said Wednesday that the material was completely contained within the laboratory. He said there is no hazard to the public, the laboratory has been cleaned and is back in operation.

Preliminary examination indicates that radiation exposure to two of the three men was within normal occupational limits, the spokesman said.

But, he said, the preliminary analysis indicates the third man may have received radiation exposure above the normal limits.

All three men continue to work, but not within the proximity of radioactive material until the analyses are complete, he said.

The spokesman said the incident occurred when the three men were moving an old glove box to make room for a new one. A glove box is a unit that allows researchers to safely work with nuclear material without coming in contact with it.

A crack developed near the bottom of the box when it was lowered to the floor, he said.

After the men sealed and packaged the box, other staffers were called to finish the cleanup operation. At no time did any nuclear material get outside the lab, he said.

An investigation committee from the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) will visit the lab to conduct an on-site inquiry into the incident.

The Battelle spokesman said Battelle conducts research for ERDA at its plutonium laboratory on fuels that may ultimately be used in nuclear power reactors.

A Page Of Opinion

Blame Sirius

One should observe a bit of care in any description of July, particularly so because June didn't behave this year exactly according to script. But July traditionally is the period of "dog days."

What are "dog days"? One dictionary offers this definition: "A sultry part of the summer supposed to occur about the time of the heliacal rising of one of the dog stars, now often reckoned from July 3 to Aug. 11." Helical?

Astronomically considered, helical means "pertaining to or occurring near the sun, especially applied to such risings and settings of a star as are most nearly coincident with those of the sun while yet being visible."

According to a theory of the Romans, the dog days — the six or eight hottest weeks of the summer — saw the dog star, or Sirius, rising with the sun, adding to its heat. Thus the dog days bore the combined heat of the dog star and the sun.

Birds understand July, because by then most of them have done with housekeeping, launched their young upon a cruel world and therefore have nothing more to sing about. Birds express themselves in April, May and June.

By late July weeds flourish everywhere, and the insect world is in the midst of its heyday of activity. Even so, there is a lot of beauty in July. Flowers of every color and perfume. The month fully justifies itself with its abundant floral offerings alone.

Pioneer Strength

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — What do Senator Walter Mondale and his wife Joan have in common with Governor Jimmy Carter and his wife Rosalynn? Answer: Far more than pure political affinity.

On several levels of personality, background and instincts, both couples are strikingly similar.

Neither couple is wealthy. Each has had struggles, on occasion, to meet the bills of their expanding families. Among 100 U.S. Senators, 20 are millionaires. "Fritz" Mondale, by contrast, lives modestly in an attractive old stucco home in Washington; with three teenage children to support and educate, they cannot afford a "winter home" or a "summer place." When they go to Minneapolis for vacations, they stay with Joan's parents rather than checking into a hotel.

The Mondales, like the Carters, come from strict religious backgrounds. "I was raised a minister's daughter," Joan says with some pride, "and Fritz was a minister's son." She calls her early life in a Presbyterian household (Fritz's was Unitarian) a "perfect training ground for the political process." Sacrifice and human involvement are the trademarks of a good parsonage, and a good public servant.

Luke Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter, the Mondales are regular churchgoers, though there is no indication they are inclined toward the fundamentalist approach to their faiths.

Joan Mondale is moderately tall, extremely slender and surfacely shy. The same traits could be applied to Rosalynn Carter. An even more conspicuous similarity between the two, however, is their determination and strength hidden under a surface of soft, almost Victorian, ladylikeness.

One friend of 46-year-old Joan describes her as "really the true American lady. She is bright, she thinks, she is determined and politically attuned - but above all, she is beautifully ladylike. In this day of snappy quotes, this will probably be held against her. The press loves Martha Mitchells, and Joan is quite the opposite."

The media has been known to tar Rosalynn with the same brush, frustrated because Mrs. Carter resolutely maintains her dignity in an era of demand for the outrageous.

Joan Mondale cooks for her family of children, but finds it something of a bore. Long ago, her mother sent her Peg Bracken's "I-Hate-To-Cook Cookbook," and she uses its recipes. Yet, when friends are ill or in need of a gift - such as when Mrs. Gretchen Poston moved into a new house - Joan Mondale does what a minister's daughter is taught to do: she cooks, and she gives. Gretchen remembers being wrung out from her move, when Joan came to the door "with a huge box full of dinner she'd made - Beef Stroganoff, rolls, salad, dessert, a bottle of Lancer's and even a little candle in a holder. Knowing she hates cooking made it especially thoughtful. Anybody else would have picked up Kentucky Fried Chicken or something."

Another close friend, Marjorie Elfin, says "Joan is always kind. Considerate, much more so than most people in Washington." Mrs. Mondale lent Marjorie a car once, when her own was out of commission, "and it worked fine for three days, but then just stopped going at Union Station one day, and I had to have it towed to a garage." Joan Mondale, believe it or not, was apologetic because this car she'd generously loaned to a friend had caused trouble. "She baked me a chocolate cake!" says Marjorie.

Her friends worry that Joan Mondale, because she's so thoughtful, will be "made out to be a Miss Prim and Proper - a goody two-shoes - and she's not like that at all. She is just well-bred and kind, but you know the press. That doesn't look good in print."

Joan and "Fritz" Mondale had a quick courtship after meeting on a blind date in 1955; they were married on December 27 of that year. Both had graduated from Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn. He was into politics, and she was working at the Minneapolis Institute of Art. She gave up her career to help her husband in his political life and raise their children. But art has remained high on her list of interests. She is a potter - jointly renting a kiln with two Washington friends - and has written a book, "Politics and Art," published in 1974.

Rosalynn Carter had similar aspirations for a career when she fell in love with Jimmy (after knowing him all her life). She had thought of becoming an interior decorator. But the challenge of public service lured her to his side, as a friend and fellow-campaigner on his upward venture toward the ultimate goal.

Both women plan to work closely together, should the Carter-Mondale ticket be elected. It may be the first time in history that a First and a Second Lady have joined forces to push for the causes they consider important. Rosalynn is particularly concerned with mental health, both are pushing for day-care legislation (already introduced in the Senate by Sen. Mondale), and Joan will extend her influence to support for the arts.

And they will work together in the only way both Rosalynn and Joan know how - with finesse and pioneer-like strength veiled by soft-spoken gentility and perfect manners.

After a decade of strident, sometimes militant, female revolutions, the renaissance of the "lady" may be at hand.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My aunt has had an eye condition caused by diabetes. Her doctor recommended laser beam treatment. She thinks a "laser beam" is only in James Bond movies. So she spoke to friends and relatives who scared her. Could you give me some straight lines of thought that will help her in making a decision?

Miss J. C., Mich.

Dear Miss C.:

The straightest line of thought that I can communicate to you and to her is to stop seeking the advice of loving, but non-medical, friends and relatives. Far too often solicitous, well-wishing friends serve to confuse rather than to clarify physical and emotional problems.

The laser beam is an important technique used in certain eye conditions.

Prior to the discovery of the antibiotics they, too, would have been considered in the realm of fantasy rather than reality.

Love your friends, but listen to your doctor.

closing the box top of the medicine. Can you tell me where I can get it in America?

Mrs. A. G., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. G.:

Readers sometimes write to me about medicines that were obtained in foreign countries, wanting to know if they can be purchased in the United States.

In most instances, American medicines carrying the approval of the Food and Drug Administration are remarkably close in content to the ones available in Europe.

People have two alternatives when such a situation arises. They can order the foreign drug directly from the European manufacturer and have it sent to the United States... unless, for some reason, it is prohibited by law from entering the country.

The other alternative is to learn from the foreign manufacturer the ingredients of the drug. Then your American doctor can compare it with those that are available here.

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market has largely ignored the erudite analyses and the projections, hopes and dreams of stock brokers and some advisers over the past few months, but undeterred they continued to truck along.

Some advisers, for example, had pointed out prior to the recent political convention that in the midst of the hoopla and excitement about a new and potentially strong Democratic candidate they shouldn't get discouraged.

It was even suggested, in fact, that they might become a bit excited, because a review of the data showed that the market tended to rise faster under Democrats than under Republicans, contrary to some popular assumptions.

As it turned out, the politicians didn't get very excited and investors didn't get very encouraged. Since Jimmy Carter's nomination the stock market has been weak. Some critics have even dared call it a Carter market.

John Wright, manager of huge portfolios for banks and other institutions, seeks to disabuse investors of whatever lingering notions they hold that Democrats are bad for business and consequently for the stock market.

From his base in Bridgeport, Conn., Wright observes that since World War II "the nation's real Gross National Product grew at a 5 per cent average annual rate during three Democratic administrations, versus a 2.2 per cent average rate during the four Republican incumbencies."

Both prices and dividends fared better under the Democrats, he reports. Stock prices rose at an 8 per cent annual rate under Democrats, 5.1 per cent under Republicans. Stock dividend income grew at 5.8 per cent versus 3.3.

In its quarterly analysis, just released, Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Co. sees the equity market as being "currently near the high end of our estimated range of 'reasonable' value, but it is not overvalued...."

Neither, it adds, does it begin to show the speculative excesses of the late 1960s, and it "seems much better balanced than the ill-fated two-tier market of 1972-1973."

While this forecast isn't particularly bullish, Smith Barney sees "little likelihood of a significant or prolonged market decline from present levels."

Blyth Eastman Dillon foresees a 1978 recession, but prior to that believes that a possibility exists that averages might move to their cyclical peak in the first half of 1977.

There is a qualifier in its outlook — it depends on the duration and severity of what Blyth Eastman believes is a market correction. Those higher prices in 1977, therefore, depend on the correction ending during the summer.

Still discouraged? Try trees. Great Plains Western Corp. is advertising timber as a great investment, "because as long as trees grow, so will your timber investment." Money growing on trees?

Editions Of The Past

35 YEARS AGO

To market wheat in excess of their 1941 quotas without paying the 49 cent penalty, Pickaway County farmers had to agree to seed below their 1942 acreage allotments. The amount of excess-quota wheat which a farmer would be able to sell would be equivalent to the normal production of that portion of his 1942 allotment not planted in wheat.

Schools in the Pickaway County system were to open their doors Sept. 2 for the 1941-42 school year, according to Superintendent George McDowell.

Reorganization of the WPA recreation program in Circleville and Pickaway County, with more emphasis on National Defense, was announced by Relief Director Delos Marcy. Eugene Boring was to replace Lawrence Hulse as area supervisor of WPA.

The Kiwanis Club's third annual summer health camp was in full swing following the enrollment of 30 youngsters at Dewey Park.

Ohioan Honored By National Guard

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Another Ohioan has achieved official recognition in the list of contributors to the nation's history.

A painting of Akron native Charles William Frederick Dick who became a national military and political figure in the early 1900s has been hung in July in the new National Guard Heritage Gallery in Washington.

Dick was a major general in command of the Ohio Division of the National Guard and a U.S. senator.

He was a friend of presidents and kingmakers and a power in the Republican party during the days of William McKinley.

His careers merged in legislation which modernized the U.S. Army after the Spanish-American War and federalized the state militias.

Time has dimmed his political fame but "the father of the National Guard" remains a hero in every armory of the 50 states.

Dick joined the 8th Ohio Infantry as an enlisted man while still in his teens and was commissioned a lieutenant the same year. By 1897, he was both a lieutenant colonel and a congressman.

The years after the Spanish-American War were the most important of his life politically and militarily. He became commander of the Ohio Division and, in 1903, author of the act to provide federal funds and Army training and equipment to the National Guard.

In 1904, he was named to replace U.S. Sen. Mark Hanna after the latter's death. He was elected to the Senate, serving until 1911. He served as president of the U.S. National Guard Association from 1902 to 1909.

The government in 1953 issued a three-cent stamp marking the 50th anniversary of the Dick Act federalizing the guard.

Air Plans For Blimp

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A blimp with four helicopters attached to its understructure is being proposed by Goodyear Aerospace Corp. as an airship that can lift more weight than any existing helicopter.

Goodyear, which has been conducting studies for NASA, says the airship is "technically feasible and ready for immediate use."

The company says that the combination blimp-helicopter could lift five times more weight than the largest U.S. helicopter.

The blimp, which is filled with helium, would offset the weight of the Army CH-54B helicopters attached to it. This frees the helicopters to lift a load of up to 100 tons, the company says.

Goodyear adds that heavy lifts are needed for such things as nuclear power generators, heavy construction equipment, portable buildings and military equipment like the Army's 62-ton main battle tank.

The airship would be 342 feet long and contain 2.5 million cubic feet of helium.

Watergate Bill Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted today to prohibit high-level presidential or vice-presidential campaign officials from becoming attorney general or deputy attorney general.

The prohibition was adopted by voice vote as an amendment to a bill creating a special prosecutor to investigate such scandals as Watergate, which bought the resignation of former President Richard M. Nixon.

The Watergate reform bill has widespread bipartisan support, and final action was expected later in the day or on Thursday.

Offered by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., the ban specifically bars presidential or vice-presidential campaign managers, finance committee chairmen, party national chairmen "and other high officials" from being named as attorney general or his deputy.

Bentsen said naming campaign officials to such posts "contributes to a growing perception of the Department of Justice as a political instrument."

He said it is "time to assure the American people" that the department is not such an instrument.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Heading this week's parade of new children's books are large story books from two of our most popular authors — Richard Scarry and Walt Disney Productions.

You'll find a full 175 pages of Scarry characters and fun in "Going Places". "Busy, Busy World", the major portion of this book, takes the reader around the world with stories such as 'Hans, the Dutch Plumber', 'Dr. Krunchew of Russia', and 'Ukulele Louis, the Hawaiian Fisherman'. The second section, entitled 'How We Go', deals with most forms of transportation in typical Scarry fashion.

Are you a Walt Disney admirer? You'll certainly want to borrow "Walt Disney's Story Land", an anthology of fifty-five fully illustrated stories from Disney films.

New picture books include "Three Big Hogs", a story of three farm hogs who are forced to learn how to live on their own. New books by Mercer Mayer are "Just for You", an account of the mother-child relationship between two make-believe rodents, and "One Monster after Another", a story in which a series of monsters intercept a letter before correct delivery is finally made.

If you enjoyed this year's Caldecott winner ("Why Mosquitoes Buzz in People's Ears"), you'll like the same author's renditions of ten other

The newspaper said Wednesday that Mrs. Sadat was first in her class in Arabic studies this year.

Some of you may have seen "Maurice Sendak's Really Rosie Starring the Nutshell Kids" on television last month. Now the Children's Room has a copy of the script including the words and music for the songs. This is a fun book to look through whether you're planning a performance or just reading for fun!

Do you think original or unusual inventions are intriguing? Find out about the earliest submarine, a circular Russian ship, and other innovative or strange crafts in "The Book of Fantastic Boats". Three other new books in the same series deal with "fantastic" cars, planes, and machines. All ages can enjoy these books, their large, clear illustrations, and their simple glossaries.

For those who like to learn as they work, we have "Games of the American Indian". You can make a variety of unusual toys while learning the culture of different Indian tribes from this text.

Highly recommended is "Canada Geese". When you read this book, you'll learn about this bird's life cycle, including its selection of a permanent mate, courtship, mating, birth, and raising its young. Theories partially explaining its precise annual migrations are also discussed. You will find large black and white photographs on nearly every page.

Mountain Named For Hale Boggs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mountain in Alaska has been named for the late Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., his widow says.

Boggs, majority leader of the House, and Rep. Nicholas Begich, D-Alaska, were on a plane which disappeared during a flight over Alaska in 1972 and has never been found.

Rep. Lindy Boggs, elected to the seat after her husband was officially presumed dead, said the U.S. Board of Geographic Names has approved the naming of Boggs Peak, a 4,440-foot mountain in the Chugach Mountains, six miles northwest of Whittier.

A nearby peak, she said, is being named in memory of Begich.

If measured in constant dollars, or 1947-1949 prices, the total national wealth of the United States increased by a factor of four between 1900 and 1958 as it rose from $315 billion to $1.2 trillion.

Battelle Eyes Scrap

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Battelle Memorial Institute is looking into the possibility of recycling old automobiles and other scrap material in an Indiana county.

The economic feasibility of using local scrap as the basis for new industry, eliminating potential solid waste problems and providing for economic development, is being studied under a technical assistance grant from the U.S. Department of Commerce's Economics Development Administration.

The study is being conducted for Indiana's St. Joseph County Economic Development, Inc.

According to Battelle's William J. Regan, it has been determined that sufficient scrap exists in the St. Joseph County area to support new industry, and researchers are now identifying potential scrap-using industries.

The major criteria for selection of these industries are the availability of suitable scrap and the market outlook for new ventures using the scrap, Regan said. A typical example, he said, could be a small steel plant recycling local scrap into new steel products.

If attractive new ventures become apparent, said Regan, researchers will then conduct a feasibility study of what new industry could be located in the area.

Regan said the purpose of the study is to go beyond traditional collection procedures to alleviate the scrap problem. "By turning this environmental liability into an economic asset, we hope to achieve a productive solution to the problem," he said.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Threesome Hinders Chance For Romance

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and Bob is 27. We've been dating for over a year, and I am very much attracted to him, but I don't seem to be making any headway. You see, whenever we go out, Bob always brings another fellow along. We have never been absolutely alone just the two of us.

I've become very much upset with having an extra man on all our dates, and I want to do something about it. Should I confront Bob with my feelings? Or would that be a mistake?

THREE IS A CROWD
DEAR THREE: A confrontation isn't necessary. If Bob were interested in a romantic involvement with you, you wouldn't have to insist on being alone with him. Three's a crowd. Lose him.

DEAR ABBY: My ex-wife and I often discuss remarrying, but we always get hung up on the question of money. Her net worth has grown substantially since our divorce, and mine has gone way down.

She feels that in a remarriage, her assets should remain hers as a sort of security, and that I should contribute the same as before.

I feel that if a couple marries, there should be a complete merger. In other words, since I was the sole source of support in our first marriage because I was "up," so to speak, financially, she would be the mainstay now that our situations are reversed.

We are both in our 50s and semi-retired and have no dependents. What do you say?

FOULED UP IN FLA.

DEAR FOULED: Your letter leaves too many questions unanswered? You say that her net worth has appreciated since your divorce, and yours has gone "way down." Why? Did you gamble or make risky investments, or were you merely a victim of the times?

She may be justified in her concern about her "security," but knowing so few of the facts, I hesitate to offer any advice.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have two children, 5 and 7. A very good friend of ours comes over about once a week for dinner and because he is such a good storyteller, the children always insist that he tell them a story.

In these stories, the bad guy always wins. I told him to please tell the kids stories in which the good guys win. He did, but the kids didn't like those stories nearly as much as the ones in which the bad guys win, so our friend went back to his old methods.

I say it's a bad influence on children, but my husband insists it doesn't matter. I would like to know what you and some of your readers think.

UNSURE IN IDYLLWILD

DEAR UNSURE: I vote with you. DEAR ABBY: My mother has been in heaven for four years. I was 8 years old when the Lord took her away, but I can never forget a certain happening.

She once asked my sister or myself to do a small chore for her, like carrying out the trash. We argued so much about whose turn it was to do it that Mama sent us both outside and she did it herself.

Please put this in your column for girls who are lucky enough to have their mothers. Love,

Mississippi Delegates May Go Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's campaign forces are stepping up the political pressure on Mississippi's uncommitted Republican convention delegation, state politicians say. Ford strategists say the delegation may swing to Ford this week, delivering a psychological shock to challenger Ronald Reagan.

Reagan supporters and uncommitted delegates in Jackson, Miss., said the Ford camp has been using high-pressure tactics in discussions with delegates. They believe Reagan still will win the delegation.

Mississippi Republicans have elected to maintain the unit rule, under which the candidate favored by a majority of the 60 regular and alternate delegates will receive all 30 delegate votes.

Ford aides are confident that a decisive shift in the now uncommitted delegation will occur within a week, and Mississippi GOP Chairman Clarke Reed told The Associated Press early today that he is surprised by the strength of Ford partisans in Mississippi.

"I find the delegation is more toward Ford than I thought. It's not locked up by the Reagan delegates for sure, and it could go for Ford. It's very close, closer than I thought," said Reed.

Stuart Spencer, the No. 2 man at the President Ford Committee, said in Washington Wednesday night that a move to Ford by the Mississippi delegation could put Ford over the top in his race with Reagan for the 1,130 delegates needed for the Republican presidential nomination.

He predicted Ford would win the Mississippi delegation and added, "This is a psychological stroke in many ways — in numbers, where they come from and everything else."

A Ford spokeswoman said the Ford campaign's latest tally showed the President with 1,120 delegates, 10 short of the number needed. None of those counted is from Mississippi, she added.

The Associated Press' delegate survey shows Ford is 47 short with 1,083 delegates, while Reagan has 1,025 and 150, including Mississippi's 30, still are uncommitted. Ford meets today with members of the New York delegation, where 13 delegates are uncommitted.

The Washington Post reported today that its survey of 33 Mississippi delegates uncovered surprising strength for Ford, but found Reagan had an 11-10 advantage among those expressing a preference.

Both Ford and Reagan have been working the state hard this week, their supporters say. The state GOP delegates meet in Jackson on Sunday, when an attempt will be made to take a preference vote.

Harry Dent, who ran Richard Nixon's Southern campaign strategy and now is delegate hunting for Ford, has been in Mississippi for several days.

Gil Carmichael, an influential Ford delegate, says "more than 20" telegrams of support have been sent to Ford from the 60-person delegation. "I'm confident Ford will get the nomination (at Kansas City next month) and I would say we now have enough in our delegation to give Ford the delegation."

W.D. Mounger, head of the Reagan forces in Mississippi, said, "I'm confident it won't happen this week, and I think I'm closer than Harry Dent."

USDA To Purchase Hamburger For Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another campaign by the Agriculture Department to buy hamburger for school lunch cafeterias may be more a psychological boost to the depressed cattle market than a real lever.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Wednesday that the Department will buy an unspecified amount of ground beef for distribution to schools for this fall. The purchases had been urged by Rep. Carl C. Curtis, R-Neb., and others to help bolster cattle prices.

But one USDA spokesman said that because of the relatively small amount expected to be purchased it "will probably have little or no effect on consumer beef prices and that the program in the past has had more of a psychological effect" on cattle markets than real economic impact.

The department bought 98.4 million pounds of ground beef for schools last year at a cost of $71.3 million, plus 65.4 million pounds of canned beef for $47.5 million.

Officials said the new orders — to be placed on the basis of competitive bids — will involve bulk ground beef and beef patties.

Because of a large supply of grain-fed beef, much of the meat will come from choice and prime wholesale carcasses, they said.

Although no total quantities were specified, if beef purchases for 1976-77 run about 100 million pounds they would be equal to little more than one day's beef production by the nation's packing plants. Last weeks output, for example, was 471.5 million pounds.

Butz said that beef is currently lower priced than it will be in the fall and that it makes sense for USDA to begin buying it now.

"We think it's good business for the government to buy its hamburger right now, to pay the storage costs that will be incurred until school starts in September, and we think that we can save money and at the same time help the cattle industry," Butz said.

"Therefore this is a good deal any way you look at it."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Candy Green, a 20-year-old Ohio State University physical education major recently became the first woman in the area to referee a wrestling match.

Her interest in the sport began as a student at Reynoldsburg High School where she officiated her first match.

"Wrestling is the biggest sport at Reynoldsburg," Miss Green said. "They are a pretty big power in central Ohio."

Now she is one of only a few certified women wrestling officials in the state.

Pets Killed By Kindness?

CINCINNATI (AP) — Some people kill pets with kindness, while others kill them with neglect. The solution seems to lay somewhere in the middle.

"People have to keep away from impulse acquisition of pets," said Dr. Harry Magrane, outgoing president of the American Veterinary Medical Association. "It's something they're going to have for 12 to 15 years. It's either going to be a lot of pleasure or a lot of pain."

Veterinarians, of which there are about 27,000 in the U.S., see both extremes in the course of their work. Magrane urged more responsible owners and stricter leash laws to curb the pet population boom; he also greets suggestions that many people spoil their pets with an understanding smile.

"Most people just love animals," he said. "I don't know any better way to sum it up."

The annual AVMA convention has drawn more than 4,500 veterinarians and their families here this week.

Magrane, who has practiced veterinary medicine for 33 years in Mishawaka, Ind., noted wryly that some dogs "don't think of you as the master. They think of you as the dog."

Court Hears Cases Against 8 Persons

Eight persons appeared Wednesday morning on criminal charges in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court. Judge William Ammer accepted pleas from three of them and sentenced three others. Two of the men appearing in the mid-week session of court were placed on probation.

Glenn Walker appeared on arraignment and pleaded not guilty to charges of burglary and grand theft. Also appearing on arraignment was Timothy Williams, who pleaded not guilty to arson and receiving stolen property.

The court accepted a guilty plea from Roy Payne and ordered a presentence report to be prepared by the Adult Parole Authority. Payne had originally been charged with felonious assault but pleaded to a lesser offense of aggravated assault after entering into negotiations with the county prosecutor, Richard Gerhardt.

A motion for early release from a prison sentence was filed by Larry Webb and granted by Judge Ammer. Webb had been incarcerated for grand theft. The court released him from further execution of the sentence and placed him on probation for three years.

Paul Stevens, originally charged with non-support, was brought before the court for violating his probation. The judge extended Stevens' probation one year, until Feb. 7, 1978.

Four cases of attempting to commit forgery were heard against Burns Steele who pleaded guilty to all charges. The court sentenced him to six months in the county jail and suspended all of that sentence except for 90 days.

Four charges of forgery against Howard Adams were also heard during the court session. Judge Ammer accepted Adams' plea of guilty to those charges and sentenced him to four terms of 2-5 years each at the Ohio Penitentiary and ordered the four sentences to run concurrently.

A final appearance Wednesday was made by Sharon Wycoff, charged with illegally receiving welfare payments. She had pleaded guilty the charge earlier and appeared Wednesday for sentencing. Judge Ammer sentenced her to a term of six months to five years at the Ohio State Reformatory for Women at Marysville.

Good Soviet Grain Crop Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Good weather has continued to boost prospects that the Soviet Union will harvest one of its largest grain crops on record this year following a debacle last year that forced Moscow to import huge quantities of wheat and corn.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that while western Europe is reeling from drought, crops have benefited from rains in much of Eastern Europe and over wide areas of the Soviet Union.

"In the USSR, soil moisture and crop conditions are generally very good," the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said in a routine weekly report.

Analysts said that cool, wet weather has been a problem in some northern areas of Russia and that a lack of moisture has continued to plague crops in parts of the south, mostly in the Crimea and vicinity.

But over-all, the agency said, "June and July rains, though patchy in places, were often generous and gave spring wheat a healthy boost" in major grain-producing areas of the Urals, Kazakhstan and West Siberia.

Two weeks ago the department's special task force on Soviet grain estimated this year's total harvest at 195 million metric tons, an increase of five million tons from its initial forecast in June, and 40 per cent larger than the 1975 Soviet crop of 139.9 million tons.

Reagan Or Rockey Liked For No. 2

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's delegates to the Republican National Convention who are expressing their preference name Ronald Reagan and Nelson Rockefeller most often for the No. 2 spot on the GOP ticket.

But both men have said — with varying degrees of firmness — that they would not take the vice presidential nomination at the convention opening in Kansas City in three and half weeks.

Reagan is going all out for the right to recommend the party's vice presidential candidate himself. He lags slightly behind Ford in the tight delegate race for the GOP presidential nomination.

The first choice for vice president of the Reagan delegates with a preference was former Texas governor and Nixon administration official John Connally. On the strength of this Reagan support alone, Connally was the contender most often named for the second spot.

Ford meets today with Rockefeller, and later with the New York GOP convention delegation, which includes a large number of uncommitted delegates who may be a key to Ford's chances to beat Reagan.

The Associated Press delegate survey found only about 40 per cent of the 1,982 delegates interviewed gave a preference for the No. 2 spot.

Of those Ford delegates who said they had a choice, Reagan was at the top of the list. Of the 97 delegates naming the former California governor for the second spot, 78 were Ford backers. Most of the rest were uncommitted delegates.

Just about a week ago, however, Reagan made as strong a statement as anyone could want about the vice presidency.

"Under no circumstances whatsoever will I accept the vice presidential nomination," Reagan said in response to a question in Newark, N.J.

Ford has said he has not ruled anyone out of the vice presidential race if he is nominated, including Reagan and Rockefeller.

Continuing the current line-up with Rockefeller as vice president was the next ranking choice of the Ford delegates with a preference. Rockefeller was named by 66 Ford delegates for vice president, most of the 75 delegates who named him.

But Rockefeller took himself out of consideration for the vice presidency last year, after some Ford supporters said he was a liability in Ford's race with Reagan.

Reagan has ruled Rockefeller out of any position in his administration because of "philosophical differences."

Connally was ranked No. 1 among the delegates, the vice presidential choice of 224 delegates. Most of Connally's support — 71 per cent — came from delegates committed to support Reagan for president.

Only 29 of Ford's delegates said they would like to see Connally as vice president, putting him in fifth place among the President's backers, in contrast to the first place he ranked with Reagan backers.

A Reagan-Ford ticket has far less support than a Ford-Reagan team that is supported by some Ford backers.

Only 25 delegates — all Reagan supporters — named Ford for vice president. That is about a third of the delegates who said they would like to see a Ford-Reagan ticket.

Fighting Continues In Lebanese War

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saudi Arabian peace troops in armored cars set up a small buffer zone between the warring Moslem and Christian sectors of Beirut today, but fighting raged on other fronts of the Lebanese civil war.

About 150 Saudi soldiers from the Arab League peace force consolidated their positions during the night at the chief crossing point through the no man's land dividing Beirut.

There was frequent sniper fire, but the white-helmeted Saudi soldiers did not retaliate. Arab League representative Hassan Sabri Kholi said the sniping was not alarming, and he was hopeful.

"Though still a shaky start and very small, the newly established buffer zone could be spread to separate combatants along the entire dividing line," the Moslems' Beirut Radio said.

"The attempt is the first genuinely positive test to re-establish communications between the two sectors of the capital and head off the dark specter of partition," the broadcast added.

Meanwhile, the Christian Phalange party claimed leftist Moslem militiamen led by Palestinian officers tried to capture the Phalange headquarters in Beirut's downtown business district.

"The attackers were beaten back in savage close-range combat overnight and by dawn they were all fleeing in chaos, leaving behind dozens of killed and wounded," a Phalange spokesman said.

The Phalange has the largest of the Christian militias battling the leftist alliance of Palestinians and Lebanese Moslems.

Two phosphate warehouses in Beirut's fire-blackened port were set ablaze during the fighting. Security sources said fire engines could not reach the area because of the battle.

Hospitals and security sources estimated that more than 100 persons were killed and 112 wounded during the night, bringing the total estimated death toll in the 15-month-old war close to 33,000.

Nadia Comaneci Sweeps Gymnastic Events

Scioto Downs

MONTREAL (AP) — She was the closest thing to perfection the Olympics have ever seen. She was cool and poised beyond her meager 14 years at a massive, jostling international news conference.

But Nadia Comaneci was just a little girl, subject to all the human faults, at the presentation ceremonies.

The gold medal as the Games' all-around gymnast was around her neck, some incredible marks were in the books and some vanquished Russians were at her sides when Nadia turned to watch the Romanian flag being raised.

Just as the first strains of the Romanian national anthem sounded — while a worldwide television audience of a billion people watched, while thousands of newsmen were proclaiming her the queen of the Games — Nadia turned human.

At that poignant moment, one for which she had trained through most of her life, she screwed up her face in a grimace — a typical teenage effort to stifle an itching nose.

And America's all-conquering male swimmers turned human, too. But not much. They won all the medals they could in Wednesday's events — they still haven't been beaten — but, for the first time in the Games, they failed to break a world record.

Like Nadia's, it wasn't much of a lapse. It came in the men's 100-meter butterfly. To make up for the failure to break Mark Spitz' 4-year-old record, the Americans turned it into another 1-2-3 sweep, their third of the Games.

The sweep by Matt Vogel, Fort

Wayne, Ind., Joe Bottom, Santa Clara, Calif., and Gary Hall, Fayetteville, N.C., along with a winning, world-record time of 7 minutes, 23.22 seconds in the men's 800 freestyle relay, pushed the male swimmers' medal accumulation so far to all seven gold medals awarded, five silver and three bronze in four days.

In all, the American team now has 10 gold, eight silver and four bronze. East Germany is second with seven gold, five silver and four bronze while Russia, also the beneficiary of a women's swimming sweep, is third with six, six and one. No other nation has more than one gold medal.

In addition to the swimmers, the United States also got a gold and a silver from its shooting team. Included was the first Olympic medal ever acquired by a woman in that sport.

Margaret Murdock, 33, who's in nursing training at Topeka, Kan., took the silver in a controversy with officials. It may yet turn out to be a gold, or a piece of a gold.

U.S. team manager Joe Berry said he was asking officials to reconsider and award two golds. Miss Murdock was originally named the winner with 1,162 out of a possible 1,200 in the small bore rifle, three positions, with Army Capt. Larry Bassham, Bedford, Tex., one point behind.

After a 3½-hour check, officials discovered a clerical error had been made, giving the two Americans the same score. Under international rules, the last 10 shots from the kneeling position are used to break the tie. And the reluctant Bassham was named the winner.

The Americans also survived another scare in basketball, saw one of their boxers move into prime position for a medal after a decisive victory over his chief opponent, a Russian, and had the first and second qualifiers, Capt. Phil Boggs of the U.S. Air Force Academy and Bob Cragg, Maple Glen, Pa., going into tonight's finals in the men's three-meter platform diving.

The basketball team, now 3-0 in the round-robin tournament, trailed tough Yugoslavia by four points at halftime and had all three centers in foul trouble before pulling out a 112-93 decision behind Scott May, with 26 points, and Adrian Dantley, with 27.

Russia also remained unbeaten with a 108-85 rout of Canada. The Americans automatically go to 4-0 tonight when they pick up a forfeit against Egypt, which has withdrawn its team from the Games.

Davey Armstrong, Puyallup, Wash., gave a classic performance of boxing and punching in a unanimous decision over Anatoly Volkov, the Russian who stopped him in two rounds in a bout in Moscow early this year.

The attention of the Games, however, was riveted on little Nadia and her flying exhibitions in the finals of the women's all-around gymnastics. And she didn't disappoint anyone — unless it was her Russian challengers, Nellie Kim and Ludmila Tourischev, for years the queen of the world's gymnasts. Miss Kim eventually finished second, Miss Tourischev third.

Nadia, cool and almost forbidding out of the gymnasium, scored her fourth and fifth perfect 10 scores, this time on the balance beam and uneven parallel bars. Before these Games, no score of 10 had been awarded in Olympic competition. She finished with a total score of 79.275 of a possible 80.

Gary Hall, a medical student at Cincinnati, says he's taking a lifetime vacation from competition after his bronze medal finish in the 100 butterfly.

Vogel's winning time was 54.35.

The relay team of Mike Bruner, Stockton, Calif., Bruce Furniss, Santa Clara, Calif., John Naber, Menlo Park, Calif., and Jim Montgomery, Madison, Wis., chopped more than seven seconds off its own record. Russia was second and Great Britain third.

East Germany's domination of the women's swimming events ended when the Russians swept the 200 breaststroke. Marina Kosheva led it with a world record time of 2:33.35 and was followed by teammates Marina Iurchenia and Liubov Rusanova.

Ulrike Richter of East Germany took the women's 200 backstroke with a time of 1:01.83, just off her own world record. Brigit Treiber of East Germany was second and Nancy Garapick of Canada third.

In other finals, Nikolai Andronov of Russia won the men's all-around individual gymnastics title, followed by Japanese Sawao Kato and Mitsuo Tsukahara; Zbigniew Kaczmarek of Poland won the lightweight weightlifting with a total lift of 676.5 pounds, and Fabio Dal Zotto of Italy took the gold in the foil fencing.

Parrish Wants Raise Or Trade

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Saying "I don't think there is anybody on the team more valuable than I am," Lemar Parrish, a four-time All Pro defensive back for the Cincinnati Bengals, says he wants a $15,000 raise or to be traded to another National Football League club.

The 28-year-old cornerback renewed his demands Wednesday, becoming the second Bengal in a week to request a new home.

Sherman White, a starting defensive end, showed up two days late for training camp last week and said he was disgruntled with Bengals management.

Parrish, heading into his seventh season, said he could be pacified by having his longterm contract renegotiated. He called the request, "reasonable, not outrageous." He is in the third year of a four year pact.

He charged that the Bengals front office has renegotiated the contracts of other players. He would not name the players involved.

Mike Brown, assistant general manager of the Bengals, said the development comes as no surprise. "With both of these people, this is an annual event. It just goes on and on."

Parrish said Brown told him recently: "I'm not trading you and I'm not renegotiating your contract."

Parrish said the contract dispute will not affect his play.

"I strive to be the best. I'll never lay down and say 'hell with it' over a contract. I'm playing for myself now."

He said he asked the Bengals not to use him on kickoff and punt returns, an area where he ranks among the most dangerous in the NFL.

He ranks 10th on the all-time list of American Football Conference punt returns.

"Running punts back is a job in itself. And it's not worth it. Now that I've gotten a little older, the risk is greater to me," he said.

Finley-Kuhn Feud Heard By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Finley-Kuhn baseball feud has moved into the halls of Congress.

Charlie Finley, the cantankerous owner of the Oakland A's, and baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn used a House committee as a sounding board for their differences Wednesday.

No end to the feud is in sight, but three other baseball owners told the congressmen they agreed with Kuhn in his recent decision to nullify Finley's sale of three Oakland A's stars for $3.5 million.

Fleet Maxine Wins Feature At Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Fleet Maxine came out of fourth at the midway point, took to the outside and won the feature pace by 15 lengths at Latonia Wednesday night.

The winner went the mile in 2:09.2-5 on a slow track to return $4.40, $3.00 and $2.20. Hendor paid $3.00 and $2.40. The show horse was Greenland Jay at $2.20.

The daily double paid $62.60 on the 8-2 combination of Ray Barrett and Stone Gold.

A track spokesperson declined to release the attendance and handle.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Minnesota Twins broke into baseball as a shortstop with Durham in the Piedmont League in 1943.

Hunter, Yanks Smash A's, 10-1

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Oakland A's haven't been the same since Catfish Hunter left — and no one knows it better than Catfish Hunter.

"Oakland doesn't have the defense now," says the New York Yankee pitcher.

On Wednesday night, they didn't have the offense, either — losing a 10-1 decision to their former teammate.

"There are only four guys playing regularly on the A's now," said Hunter. "And there are only 10 players at the most who are still there that I played with in 1974."

Hunter, who came to the Yankees after escaping from Oakland through a legal loophole in his contract, has treated the onetime world champions with utter disdain since 1974. Hunter holds a 5-1 edge over the team he once led to three world titles.

In the other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Texas Rangers 6-4 in 12 innings; the Minnesota Twins turned back the Boston Red Sox 5-1; the Chicago White Sox took a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers 4-1 and 3-0; the Milwaukee Brewers stopped the Kansas City Royals 5-0 and the Cleveland Indians defeated the California Angels 6-2.

Hunter, 12-6, scattered nine hits and got ample batting support from Thurman Munson. The Yankee catcher drove in five runs with a three-run homer and two singles.

The only run off Hunter came in the first, on Joe Rudi's RBI single. Munson hit his home run in the fifth inning and run-scoring singles in the first and eighth.

Orioles 6, Rangers 4

Paul Blair, hitting only .206 at game time, socked a two-run homer off Joe Hoerner in the top of the 12th inning to lead Baltimore over Texas. Blair's blast, his second of the season, followed a walk to Bobby Grich and gave the victory to reliever Tippy Martinez, 3-0.

Twins 5, Red Sox 1

Bob Randall drove in two runs with a third-inning double to help Dave Goltz and Minnesota defeat Boston. Goltz, 8-8, stopped a personal five-game losing streak as he pitched the first seven innings.

White Sox 4-3, Tigers 1-0

Lamar Johnson drove in two runs and pitcher Chris Knapp won his first major league game with a four-hitter as Chicago beat Detroit in the first game of a doubleheader.

Bucky Dent drilled a two-run triple in the fourth inning and Bart Johnson scattered six hits to carry Chicago to a sweep in the second game.

Brewers 5, Royals 0

Von Joshua and Tim Johnson collected two hits apiece as Milwaukee beat Kansas City with the help of six errors by the Royals.

The victory went to Bill Travers, 11-7, who gave up four hits in 6.2-3 innings, walked six, threw two wild pitches and hit two batters. Al Fitzmorris, 11-6, who made one of the Royals' errors, was victimized by the faulty support.

Indians 6, Angels 2

Charlie Spikes drove in three runs and Rick Waits scattered seven hits as Cleveland beat California. Waits, 4-4, outdueled California ace Nolan Ryan, 7-12.

Circleville Stars Win At Hilliard

Luke McConnell fired a no-hitter and aided his own cause with a triple and double as the 10-year-old Circleville All-Stars stopped Dublin, 18-1, in the Hilliard Tournament.

Circleville, who has suffered one loss in the double elimination affair, will meet Hilliard 6:30 p.m. Friday.

Lowery, Terry and Taylor shared the mound for Dublin in the four inning contest.

Randy Huffer belted a triple and double for Circleville, Steve Baker slammed a pair of two-baggers, Alex Vandagriff slugged a double, David Delong rapped three hits while Meenach and Campbell each added a hit.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Suddenly Charlie Spikes and Rick Waits are beginning to look like the players the Cleveland Indians were counting on to help lead them out of the doldrums this year.

Spikes went three for three and drove in three runs and Waits yielded just seven hits Wednesday night in Cleveland's 6-2 victory over the California Angels.

"Charlie is swinging the bat better," said smiling Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson. "But he's still not the Charlie Spikes he used to be, although he is swinging the bat much better than early in the season."

He put the Indians ahead with a two-run, two-out single in the fourth and drove in yet another run with a single in Cleveland's two-run ninth.

College All-Stars Meet Pros

CHICAGO (AP) — Great running, a strong defensive but a questionable quarterbacking corps is what the College All-Stars will unveil Friday night when they meet the two-time Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers Friday night in Soldier Field.

The midsummer football classic in which the pros hold a 30-9-2 edge will be nationally televised (ABC, 9:30 p.m., EDT).

Down through the years the All-Stars have had the talents of such great name quarterbacks as Sammy Baugh, Cecil Isbell and Otto Graham and recent standouts like Roger Staubach, Steve Bartkowski and Bert Jones.

The No. 1 pro draft pick this year was Richard Todd of Alabama but Todd did not report to camp, leaving the quarterbacking duties to Mike Kruczek of Boston College, Craig Penrose of San Diego State and Jeb Blount of Tulsa.

One of them will get the starting job and all three might get to play because of their various abilities. Coach Ara Parseghian is hoping one of them will get the hot hand which will enable the All-Stars to end an 11-game losing streak to the pros.

The All-Stars have not won a game in the series since 1963 when they upset the late Vince Lombardi's Green Bay Packers 20-17.

Mickey Lolich of the New York Mets broke into baseball in 1959. That season he pitched for Knoxville in the Sally League and Durham in the Carolina League for a combined 4-8 record.

Whitey Ford won 10 World Series games and in 32 innings during the 1960-61 classics gave up no runs despite 17 hits and three walks.

Norman Shuts Out Mets, 4-0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fred Norman could have saved the New York Mets nine innings of wear and tear Wednesday night—but the rules say the game must go on.

"This was one of those nights when you warm up and know you have it. I had no-hit stuff," said the 5-foot-8 Cincinnati Reds lefthander after his four hit, 4-0 victory over the Mets boosted his lifetime mark to 30-7 at Riverfront Stadium.

"I knew right then in the bullpen I was going to pitch a good game," said Norman, who retired 21 of the first 22 batters he faced.

Norman, banished to the bullpen earlier this year, has emerged as the most effective starter on the world champion's staff. At 32 the elder statesman of the Cincinnati staff, his 2.16 earned run average is easily the best on the team. He leads the club with three shutouts and is tied for most complete games with five.

He struck out four and didn't allow a walk. The complete game was the 22nd of the season for the Reds, equalling last year's total.

Now 8-2, he outdueled Jon Matlack, 10-4, who fell victim to the Reds for the ninth time in 12 career starts.

"I knew I had to pitch good to stay with Matlack," said Norman, who retired 21 of the first 22 Mets he faced. John Milner's triple in the fourth was the only hit off Norman until the eighth when Mike Vail and Roy Staiger singled.

While Norman was holding forth on the mound, Joe Morgan was finding himself against Matlack, his longtime tormentor.

Morgan, baffled early by Matlack, decided to experiment with his batting stance after the Mets lefthander quickly fired two strikes.

"I realized I couldn't see his pitches very well," said Morgan. He opened his stance six inches and finished up with a single and a double.

He drove in the Reds first run with a fourth-inning single for his 70 RBI of the season, four behind teammate George Foster, who leads the National League with 74.

"I can hit him if I can see him," said Morgan. His single came on an inside fastball, a pitch that normally handcuffs Morgan. "Never in my life have I hit an inside fastball off him," exulted Morgan.

Reds Manager Sparky Anderson second-guessed himself over Norman's early exile to the bullpen.

"If he had started the eight or nine games he missed, there's a good chance he would have 13 wins right now. This guy tries to finish a game he starts. He was tired but he gutted it out," said Anderson.

The Reds ran wild on the bases, stealing five, with Joe getting three, including third base twice.

Steady Shadow Wins Scioto Downs Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Steady Shadow moved into the lead from fourth place at the top of the stretch to win the featured race by a nose at Scioto Downs Wednesday night.

The winner, pacing the mile in 2:02 4-5, returned $4.80, $4 and $3.60. Frisky C. Robby paid $8.80 and $4.80 for second and Way Chuck, $5.20 for show.

The 9-3 daily double combination of Mona Blaze and Pestee was worth $156.40.

Attendance was 4,168; handle was $239,898.

Manager Dave Bristol of the Atlanta Braves began his baseball career with Welch in the Appalachian League in 1951 as a second baseman.

leaving for Atlanta Friday for a three-game series.

When Reggie Smith was with St. Louis earlier in the season he had a hunch he might be traded, so he took a cram course. His subjects were the Cardinal pitchers.

The hunch came true last month when the Cards dealt him to Los Angeles and now Smith is teaching a cram course ... and the St. Louis hurlers are receiving failing marks.

Smith has hit five home runs in a Los Angeles uniform ... all in the last 10 games ... and all against the Cardinals. Two of them came Wednesday as the Dodgers topped St. Louis 7-6 in 10 innings.

"I would be lying if I didn't say that I got more satisfaction hitting this way against the Cardinals," Smith admitted. "But the main satisfaction is the fact we won the game. It seemed like my name kept coming up in trade talks all the time, so I just made an extra effort to study the Cardinals' pitchers. I guess it paid off."

In other National League contests, the Cincinnati Reds blanked the New York Mets 4-0, the Philadelphia Phillies trimmed the San Diego Padres 5-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates took a pair from the Houston Astros 5-1 and 4-1, the Montreal Expos nipped the Atlanta Braves 4-3 and the San Francisco Giants edged the Chicago Cubs 2-1.

While Smith jolted his former St. Louis teammates with solo homers—his 12th and 13th—in the third and fifth innings and a pair of singles, another ex-Cardinal, pinch hitter Ted Sizemore, singled home an unearned run in the bottom of the 10th inning off St. Louis relief ace Al Hrabosky to give the Dodgers the victory.

Phillies 5, Padres 1

Jim Kaat won his 10th game with ninth-inning help from Gene Garber while Tommy Hutton hit a three-run homer, his first of the season. Jay Johnstone led the Phils' 11-hit attack with a double and two singles.

Pirates 5-4, Astros 1-1

Spot starter Larry Demery allowed two hits after flirting with a no-hitter for 6 2-3 innings in the nightcap. In the opener, Jerry Reuss scattered nine hits and Bill Robinson socked a two-run homer. Pittsburgh's Frank Taveras stole three bases in the twin bill to take over the NL lead with 32.

Demery, making only his fourth start of the season, had a no-hitter until Jose Cruz singled with two out in the seventh.

Expos 4, Braves 3

Montreal erased a three-run deficit in the sixth on Jose Morales' two-run pinch single and a game-tying hit by pinch hitter Tim Lincecum. The Expos then pushed across the winner in the seventh on a walk, Mike Jorgensen's third hit, another walk and Larry Parrish's grounder. Reliever Dale Murray notched his first victory of the season after eight losses.

SWCD Supervisors School Planned At Ashland College

COLUMBUS — Officials from Ohio's 88 Soil and Water Conservation Districts will attend a school for SWCD supervisors at Ashland College Aug. 1-3.

Attending from the Pickaway Soil And Water Conservation District will be Mr. and Mrs. Chaney Vance, Charles McCray, David Bolender, Ray Taylor, Robert Bower, and Olive Neff.

Cosponsored by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources and the Ohio Federation of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, the program is designed to help supervisors learn more about management of natural resources by participating in discussions of current developments in soil and water conservation, taking part in educational programs and observing sound conservation farming practices.

Floyd Heft, Chief of ODNR's Division of Soil and Water Districts, said he expects 500 people for the 31st annual summer training session.

The program will open on Sunday, Aug. 1, with registrations beginning at 1:30 p.m., followed by a reception and dinner Sunday evening.

Formal activities will begin at 8 a.m. Monday with meetings for committees on watershed, research, drainage, land use, conservation education, and resource conservation and development. State Rep. Kenneth Cox of Barberton, Chairman of the Ohio Land Use Review Committee, is scheduled to attend the land use committee meeting.

There will be panel discussions Monday on strip mine reclamation, legislative proposals for Ohio drainage laws, and modern tillage operations.

Monday's activities will include a presentation at 1:15 p.m. on "Today's Land Use Challenges" by William Huemoeller, a research associate in the Agronomy Department at Iowa State University. Huemoeller is a member of the special land use committee of the Association of North Central Land Grant Colleges, which includes Ohio State University.

Ohio Agriculture Director John Stackhouse will speak at 4:10 p.m. Monday on, "Pesticide Legislation and How It Affects Agriculture."

A meeting also is planned on Section 208 of the Federal Water Quality Act (P.L. 92-500), which directs the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to assist states in developing and implementing water quality management plans.

On Tuesday, the participants will tour property being framed under a plan developed in cooperation with the Ashland Soil and Water Conservation District. The tour will include other scenic farmland in the area and a visit to Mohican State Park, with a stop for lunch at Mohican Lodge.

Ohio State Fair Family Crafts Set

The Family Arts and Crafts Show at the 1976 Ohio State Fair features the best that Ohio has to offer in the areas of cooking, sewing, collecting antiques and many other wonderful arts and crafts.

It is one of the fastest growing events at the Fair — in quality as well as quantity and is considered to be the finest of any fair.

Nine-hundred and eighty-two exhibitors have entered this year's show, which is approximately a 10 per cent increase from 1975. These exhibitors will be competing for $9,556 in premium money.

According to Mrs. Loriane Wulber, director of the Family Arts and Crafts Department, "There will be special displays and programs to help in the celebration of the Bicentennial. Some will show our rich heritage while others will carry out the Bicentennial theme."

The articles to be exhibited will be brought in on August 6, 7 and 8 for judging prior to display for spectator enjoyment.

All exhibits will be on display in the Family Arts and Crafts Building between 9:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. each day of the Fair.

The 1976 Ohio State Fair, "Showcase of the American Spirit," is scheduled for a 12-day period, August 26th through Labor Day, September 6th.

SOUTHEAST

Mostly cloudy tonight and Friday with showers and thundershowers likely. Low tonight in the upper 60s and lower 70s. High Friday 85 to 90. Probability of rain 60 per cent today, tonight and Friday.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scattered showers and a few thundershowers were expected to dominate Ohio's weather through Friday. Temperatures were expected to reach the upper 70s and low 80s tonight, climbing Friday into the muggy mid and upper 80s. Lows tonight will be in the 60s.

Along with the rain, fog formed this morning in low areas and more is expected again Friday.

The morning weather map is dominated by a high pressure area centered in southwest Quebec and covering the St. Lawrence Valley and the Great Lakes. A stationary front from New Jersey through central Ohio to Nebraska marks the southern boundary of the high.

Bridge Repair Nears Completion

POMEROY, Ohio (AP) — Repair of the Pomeroy-Mason, W. Va., bridge is near completion and the span is scheduled to reopen to traffic July 30.

The $1.3 million repair is about a month ahead of schedule and residents on both sides of the river welcome the early completion.

The closing of the bridge March 30 has had an adverse economic impact on the area as only ferry boat service has linked the two cities for auto traffic.

The repair work consisted primarily of pouring a new concrete floor in the span. A spokesman at the project said the concrete will need another week to cure before it can hold traffic.

Britain was invaded by Julius Caesar in 4 B.C. and was soon a Roman province.

Steamship Lives On Along River

ON THE OHIO RIVER (AP) — The Delta Queen Steamboat Co. seems to be thriving on adversity and its president, Betty Blake, has dreams which would seem to steer the 86-year-old firm into never-ending problems.

Since joining the company 15 years ago, she has guided the steamboat past situations which were trickier than any Mississippi River current. First, the problems were financial, and then they were legal.

In 1970, the company was losing its only asset, the Delta Queen, because of requirements inherent in the 1966 Safety at Sea Act. However, she managed to muster public support and secure an exemption which has been extended once and has been recently renewed by the House of Representatives.

In an age where the steamboat has become an anachronism, she has weathered financial instability and made the first American-built steamship in 50 years a reality.

The Mississippi Queen, a $21 million dream four years ago, landed in Louisville today after its first voyage with a full complement of passengers.

"Everything we have done, someone has said it was impossible," she said of the company that owns America's only two overnight steamships.

"Maybe that's what kept us going, that we were always taking on the impossible," she said.

The 45-year-old steamboat company president says she is not a steamboat buff, as are many of the men who run the Mississippi Queen, and the Delta Queen, built in 1926.

She was not raised on the river, but she has learned to love its way of life.

"I wouldn't get down and kiss the side of the Delta Queen. I'm not the kind of person who says 'I love the Delta Queen.'"

"But I love what it represents. To me, there's a security on the river. And all that love of the steamboat couldn't have kept them from destruction. Maybe it's the way I felt that helped save them."

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Be sure of your road now. Perhaps you should look over your program once more. A slight revision might be just "what the doctor ordered."

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Good influences! Plan your schedule early, isolate priorities quickly and tackle with new vigor. Spearhead your drive with confidence in success.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your active mind will relish this challenging period. Creative writing, literary pursuits and educational matters should hold special interest.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): If a proposed plan is well-advised, try it, even though it is "unusual." It could just prove to be one of your more interesting challenges.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): You may have to revise some plans, change tactics. Don't go too far out on a limb, however. Stability needed.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Don't permit trifles to be blown out of proportion, distorting your innate perceptiveness and good judgment. Aim to ease tensions in close circles.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You won't find any hiding place for your problems, so you might just as well face up to them and work them out. But do so in a relaxed manner and with no anxiety.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Achievement will be largely up to yourself now. You won't have much planetary help, but YOU can light up the fires of enthusiasm and good will.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23): Emphasize your stability. Many will look to you for support and guidance. Without overtaxing yourself, give help wherever you can.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan. 20): Mixed planetary influences. Good opportunities for advancement abound in your area but you may have to search them out for yourself. Personal interests highly favored.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A period of adjustment. Profit by experience and study the methods of successful people. Make moves designed to enhance position, insure gains.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Mixed influences. Check impulsive comments, action. You could step into trouble with little effort through wrong or heedless tactics.

YOU BORN TODAY are a Cancer-Leo cuspal (one born at the change of Signs) and, as such, possess the dominant traits of both. You have the sensitive, idealistic and humanitarian nature of the Cancerian, with an affinity for such professions as medicine, education and sociology, and you have the outgoing personality of the Leoite, which frequently expresses itself in a flair for the dramatic. The combination is a potent one and, depending upon your leanings and education, of course, can be a tremendous asset in such careers as literature, music and acting - all of which satisfy the Cancerian craving to serve his fellowman (even artistically) as well as being gratifying to the Leoite's urge for the spotlight. Your interest in people plus your delicious sense of humor makes you a delightful companion. Birthdate of: Charlotte Cushman, American actress; James (Cardinal) Gibbons, Amer. clergyman.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It may be a good thing Lee "Six Million Dollar Man" Majors is playing Francis Gary Powers next fall when NBC airs a dramatization of Powers' 1970 book, "Operation Overflight."

Powers just doesn't seem a star spy, even though he became the CIA's best-known snoop in May 1960, when an anti-aircraft missile knocked his jet-powered U-2 plane from the sky more than 68,000 feet over Russia.

It caused a major flap for the U.S., downed a summit meeting aimed at defrosting the cold war and put Powers in a Soviet jail until his exchange in February 1962 for Col. Rudolph Abel, a Soviet spy.

But for five years now, Powers, a graying, compact man of 47, has done nothing more monumental than report LA traffic conditions for station KGIL while tooling about in a light plane at 2,500 feet altitude.

It still seemed kind of ironic when he explained why he wasn't up flying for KGIL the morning of the interview, a gray and overcast morning. "The ceiling was a bit too low and we're only supposed to fly VFR (visual flight rules)," grinned Powers, who estimates he has 7,000 flying hours logged, 3,500 of it jet time and 2,500 of that U-2 time.

A guy who smiles easily and talks softly, Powers was an Air Force F84 jet pilot when he joined the CIA to fly U-2s. After his release by Russia, he said, he test-flew U-2s for Lockheed, the plane's maker, until Lockheed pink-slipped him in 1970, citing hard times.

He said he found it a bit strange the pink slip came in the same month he'd submitted the manuscript of "Overflight" — which is about his life, the U-2 incident and the aftermath — to the CIA for comment.

"There's supposedly no connection," he laughed. "But it'd be hard to convince me. They told me they were in hard times, but it wasn't long after that they hired a bunch of U-2 pilots with less experience..."

Powers, who spoke of all this with a wry that's-the-way-it-goes shrug, said the CIA never had asked to see the manuscript and only had told him to use his own judgment when he and author Curt Gentry began it.

The reason he sought CIA comment, he added, was because any seemingly innocent passage about the work he and others did could prove a valuable tidbit of information when put together with other data by foreign intelligence agents.

He said the CIA only asked him to delete two segments and that he voluntarily agreed to both. He said one concerned "some allies" of America, and indicated the other concerned his Russian captors.

He declined, even now, to be more specific about either deletion. Powers now lives in suburban Sherman Oaks, Calif., with his wife and two children.

In 1485, Henry VII of England founded the House of Tudor, increased the power of the Star Chamber, developed a navy, sponsored explorations to the New World, and ended feudalism by outlawing private armies.

The Tower of London is a group of buildings and towers covering 13 acres along the north bank of the Thames River.

Buyers Of Coffee Shrug Off Prices

By TERRY KIRKPATRICK
AP Business Writer

Getting started in the morning is getting more expensive these days, if coffee is involved. But some just can't do without.

"There is no point when I would stop buying it," Carmen Elera said as she checked prices in the coffee section of a San Francisco supermarket. "I have to have my coffee in the morning."

"I have no choice," echoed Mary Pejiri in Chicago. "My husband is a big coffee drinker and has to have it regardless of the cost. If we have to cut down somewhere, it won't be coffee."

Shoppers have watched coffee prices rise 50 cents a pound or more in the past year, mostly because of a frost that struck the Brazilian coffee crop last July, the war in Angola and this year's earthquake in Guatemala.

But coffee drinkers are apparently buying just as much as ever, although they are shaving pennies where they can. Others are clipping discount coupons, using instant coffee to avoid brewing a full pot, cutting down to one cup a day, or switching to tea.

"The price increases passed on to consumers over the past year have totaled about 40 per cent, but we are still moving our best sellers or medium-priced brands," said Fred Breau, a New Orleans grocer.

Safeway Stores, which operates 2,451 outlets in 28 states, says it hasn't noticed any changes in coffee buying patterns. And General Foods Corp., the country's largest coffee producer, says sales have held up despite the price increases, probably because some buyers are stockpiling.

"There has been absolutely no decline in coffee consumption in restaurants and very little at the retail level," said Edward Jones, who has

Artists Compete At State Show

The show will include exhibits of paintings, sculpture, graphics, pottery and photography.

This year's special exhibitor will be Tella Kitchen of Adelphi, Ohio, a primitive painter in the mold of Grandma Moses.

The show will be held in the Cox Fine Arts Building and will be open each day of the fair, Aug. 26 through Sept. 6.

Congress Overrides Jobs Bill Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, with an attack on joblessness as a major goal this year, expects to enact a public works jobs bill into law today over the President's veto.

The Senate voted 73 to 24 on Wednesday to override President Ford's veto of a $3.95-billion public works bill, and Democratic leaders predicted the House would easily make the override final today.

New Citizens

MASTER GOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Good, Washington D.C., are the parents of a 7-pound 8-ounce son born Wednesday morning. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Medford D. Good, Route 1, Amanda.

MASTER RUSSELL

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Russell (Sharon Nixon), Route 1, Stoutsville, are the parents of a 6-pound 12-ounce son born 5:21 p.m. Wednesday at Lancaster-Fairfield Hospital in Lancaster.

MASTER TAIT

Mr. and Mrs. David Tait (Patricia Rittinger), 950 S. Pickaway St., are the parents of a 7-pound 8-ounce son born 8:41 p.m. Wednesday at Berger Hospital.

Auto Recovered By Deputies

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department recovered a stolen automobile almost an hour before its driver realized it was missing Wednesday.

The car was taken from the parking lot at Bob's Bar in Ashville and the driver, Bob Glick, discovered it missing at 11:30 p.m.

At 10:38 p.m., Raymond Henson of near Ashville had called the sheriff's department to report that a strange car was parked in the driveway of his home. It was Glick's car.

Mainly About People

Mrs. Gertrude Stevens Ramey, 135 Marilla, Columbus, is a patient in Mt. Carmel Hospital West, Columbus.

Mr. Forrest Rinehart, 120 Pleasant St., has been dismissed from Riverside Hospital, Columbus.

Motorist Injured

Willie E. Williams, 41, Grove City, was referred to a doctor for treatment of minor injuries sustained when he drove his car off the road to avoid a collision with another vehicle.

The accident occurred 11:30 a.m. Wednesday on Route 316 near the Columbus-Darbyville Road.

According to Williams, he went off the right side of the road into a ditch to avoid hitting a car backing from a private lane.

"We have it locked up," said House Majority Leader Thomas O'Neill.

But O'Neill was not so confident about overriding Ford's veto of another bill: a $3.3-billion military construction authorization. A vote is also expected today on that veto.

Supporters of the public works bill say it would create 200,000 construction and other jobs while protecting another 90,000 state and local government jobs.

Sen. Walter Mondale, the Democrats' vice presidential nominee, said he couldn't understand Ford's veto because "the worst thing you can do is deny people work. This country needs work."

Ford had called an earlier $6.2-billion version of the bill, which he successfully vetoed, "little more than election-year pork barrel." He made clear he considers the new version little better.

"This bill will not create lasting jobs," Ford said, "but will instead create more inflation."

Supporters say the bill will create jobs in the construction industry because it authorizes $2 billion in grants to state and local government for public works construction projects that can be started in 90 days.

They say the 90,000 state and local government jobs will be saved by a $1.25-billion authorization in the bill for antirecession grants to maintain government services in areas with high unemployment.

Democratic leaders, particularly in the House, set creation of more jobs as their major legislative goal at the start of this year.

The tentative $413.3-billion federal spending target Congress approved for next year earmarks about $6 billion for programs supporters say would create or save about a million jobs.

Ford vetoed the $3.3-billion military construction authorization bill because of a rider congressmen tacked on to it prohibiting the Pentagon from closing any bases in their districts without a year's advance notice to Congress.

Both vehicles were heavily damaged.
